

JCI United Kingdom Case Study

Developing tomorrow's leaderstoday

Amy Barnes, Director, PAT Direct Limited

Amy joined JCI Sheffield in 2004, having just set up her own company and wanted to gain more knowledge of the Sheffield business scene and meet local business people. JCI Sheffield offered a wide range of training opportunities at no cost, which was important as the company had only just been set up

JCI Roles

Worked on various community projects
Project Manager of JCI Sheffield Annual Dinner 2004/5
JCI Sheffield Community Director 2005
JCI Sheffield President 2006

JCI Achievements

Level One achievement 2005
JCI Sheffield outstanding member 2005

Amy says:

I have met a lot of very nice people and developed a wider social group. Through organising events I have learnt new skills and also developed existing ones further. My confidence towards meeting new people and organising projects has increased dramatically.

I have been involved with the organisation of social events, our Annual Dinner, charity fundraising and have attended personal development events, as well as National Council.

My confidence has increased and I have a greater knowledge and understanding of the Sheffield business scene.

JCI is a great opportunity to meet new people in a relaxed environment. If you want to get involved to a greater degree there are so many opportunities. It's easy to get involved when there is such a great support network and experience.
